Ministry of the Solicitor General

TORONTO

A Bill to revise The Private Investigators and Security Guards Act was introduced in the Ontario Legislature today by the Honourable R. Roy McMurtry, Solicitor General of Ontario. An earlier version of the Bill was introduced in the Legislature last year, but was not proceeded with in order to give an opportunity for public comment. Some suggested improvements have been incorporated in the Bill, and Mr. McMurtry expressed his hope that the Bill will be enacted into law as soon as possible.

"We have received much cooperation and assistance from representatives of the private security industry, together with other interested members of the public", Mr. McMurtry stated. "I am very much impressed by the industry's desire to upgrade its image and standards and to provide a competent, quality service to the public. We feel that the governing legislation must sufficiently protect the public, and I am pleased to say that the industry shares our view and has been very helpful in the preparation of this revision".

The Private Investigators and Security Guards Act was last updated in 1965 and is now being substantially modernized. The duties and powers of the Registrar of Private Investigators and Security Guards respecting licensing, inspections and investigations are clarified to permit improved enforcement. The legislation is also being extended to apply to new groups such as the burglar alarm industry and security consultants.

Alterations to the licensing procedures are proposed by the Bill. An individual's licence would no longer be tied to employment with one firm, and a new licence would not be required when employment changes. The grounds for refusal or revocation of a licence would be spelled out with more particularity, in keeping with the recommendations of the McRuer Royal Commission into Civil Rights. The definitions of a private investigator and a security guard are enlarged to apply to a wider range of activities. Liability insurance would also be required with an application for an agency licence.

The Bill would establish a new board, the Private Investigation and Security Services Licensing Appeal Board, to hear appeals from decisions of the Registrar, and a further appeal would be available to the Divisional Court.

The general provision of the legislation would be made applicable to "in-house agents", but such agents would not be required to be licensed. In other words, the rules concerning uniforms, confidentiality of information and weapons would apply to security staff in the employ of stores and manufacturing companies.

Competition came from all over the country and is again open to any lady from anyplace in North America. Last year's defending champion was Karrie Clendenning and she will hopefully be on hand to defend her title this year. So come on ladies, get those arms tuned up for one of the most exciting events at the county fair to be held in the Fair grounds this August.

Letters to the Editor:

Reeve and Council, Stanhope Township
Dear Sir:

We have received the information regarding the termination of the services of Mr. Richard Kinsman as volunteer Fire Chief with deep regrets, particularly when we consider the public accolades which the Fire Department has recently received. We must come to the conclusion that this is the result of a series of unsubstantiated accusations. We have lost the valuable services of a skilled group of dedicated men in support of a capable and dedicated leader, a factor we find most shocking.

The costs involved in this decision of Council may well be a material factor in our mill rate and resulting taxes. We will expect the costs to be at the very least restricted to those of relocation of telephone services and that we will continue to benefit from a volunteer fire department, the members of which will provide their services as dedicated persons with, as in the past, nominal gratuities expressng our gratitude rather than hourly rated services provided at fires with the risk of inflated costs due to malingering.

We wish, through you, as you have not seen fit to do so, to publicly express to Mr. Kinsman and his associates our sincere thanks for their selfless efforts.

We suggest to you that the loss to our community by this tragic, unfortunate and unnecessary affair will in the years to come be immeasurable both from the standpoint of volunteer services not provided and the schism in our community which your pusillanimous actions have created.

Yours truly, Douglas S. Cruthers,
President, Boshkung Lake Cottagers' Association

Hunting licence fee changes for 1979

Nothing is surer than death, taxes and the cost of a raccoon dog licence. At least this used to be true. The cost of licensing a dog to hunt raccoons was set at one dollar 23 years ago and due to the relative insignificance of the total revenue from this one source, it has not been changed. . .until now.

Natural Resources Minister James A. C. Auld announced today a revision of fees of 14 different hunting licences, which is expected to bring in approximately $6.5 million in additional revenue over the next three years.

With the exception of moose licences, this is the first time hunting licence fees have been raised since 1970.

For residents of Ontario, deer, moose and farmer's deer licences have all been raised by $5 to $15, $20, and $10, respectively. The lowest amount resident hunters will pay for any licence, such as the raccoon dog licence and the small game licence or "groundhog" licence, will be $5.00.

Licences for persons who are not Ontario residents have increased by proportionately greater amounts.

It will now cost a non-resident $200 to hunt moose in Ontario, which is $25 more than he or she paid in 1978 (the $200 licence is a composite of "general" licence, valid for moose, deer, bear, and small game). The small difference between the previous licences which allowed non-residents to hunt either small game or deer, bears and small game has been corrected. The choice these hunters will now have will be between a $40 non-resident small game licence, and an $80 deer, bear, small game licence.

Issuers of hunting licences, which include owners of general or sporting goods stores and a few handicapped people, will also receive more for their services. Not all of the increase, therefore, will go into government coffers.

Over the past 12 months, the Ontario Government has reviewed all of its "non-tax" sources of revenue. Fees that are charged by the province, such as hunting licence fees, service charges, royalties, and costs of items for sale have been reviewed in detail. The objective is to raise additional revenue for increased costs of government services demanded by the public, rather than raising revenue by raising taxes.

Mr. Auld stated that it is difficult to estimate what effect these increases will have on purchases of hunting licences, and it is always difficult to estimate such purchases in any event (due to the possibility of inclement weather, changes in game populations, leisure time, etc.).

However, if everything goes as planned, and people react to these increases as they have in the past, revenue from the source is expected to rise from about $4.7 million to above $6.1 million, and then gradually increase through $6.8 in 1980-81, and $7.7 million in 1981-82, he said.

"We do recognize the difficulty persons on relatively fixed incomes may have with such changes. This was a prime consideration of the government in deciding upon the final fee structure."

Mr. Auld said that he is often asked whether hunting licence fees go directly into the wildlife management program. He pointed out that all revenue from this source goes into the consolidated revenue fund along with revenues from most other government sources such as automobile licences, taxes, royalties, etc. This is the general pot that the Ontario Government draws upon to support most of its program. Monies from lotteries constitute an exception.

"I realize that hunters expect to see improvements if they must pay more for their opportunities, and indeed, improvement is our goal," he said.

Snow introduces changes in Highway Traffic Act

TORONTO — New regulations for emergency vehicles at red signal lights, prohibition of dumping snow on roadways, and the definition of a bicyclist as a driver, were among a series of amendments to The Highway Traffic Act introduced in the Legislature by Transportation and Communications Minister James Snow.

The Bill proposes emergency vehicles such as fire engines and police cars should be given the right to proceed against a red light — after coming to a full stop — when enroute to fires, pursuing criminals, etc.

"Such vehicles would be required to have a continuously-sounding siren and intermittent red light flashing," said Snow.

The Bill also brings bicyclists completely under HTA regulations because the word "driver" will define a person who drives any type of vehicle, including a bicycle. All will be subject to the HTA.

Amendments to the Bill also spell out the securing of loads on all vehicles, extending present legislation to cover all motor vehicles including cars.

"This is aimed at drivers we have all seen on the highway, moving goods such as lumber, furniture and boats without taking proper precautions to make sure what they are carrying is properly tied and secured to the car," Snow said.

Another amendment would remedy situations wherein a driver has kept possession of his licence when asked to "produce" it by an investigating police officer. The word "produce" would now be changed to "surrender".

"Every driver will now have to give his or her licence to the investigating police officer when asked," Snow said.

Motorists on Ontario's highways this summer will be seeing "portable lane control units", according to Snow.

Used mainly at road construction and repair sites, the units will have red, green and amber signals controlled by radio. The units will be used to alternate the traffic stream when traffic is restricted to one lane.

Snow stressed "these portable traffic signals should be obeyed just as permanently-installed signals are".

Another amendment concerns reciprocity for bus safety inspections. It exempts vehicles that meet comparable standards under programs administered by other provinces or states. This would allow bus operators with inspection facilities already established outside Ontario to avoid the unnecessary duplication of safety inspections in the Province.

The amendments also cover axle-unit weights and axle-group weights. When a vehicle's weight exceeds the allowable weight, the driver may be required by the inspecting officer to remove the additional weight.

"In many circumstances all that may be required is that the load be distributed to comply with existing axle-weight standards," Snow pointed out.

The amendments drew a bead on a common practice and a potential danger to motorists . snow or ice dumped onto a roadway from driveways, parking lots, etc. by snow ploughs or other snow-removing devices.

The HTA would be amended by a section stipulating no person shall deposit snow or ice on a roadway without permission from the Ministry or road authority responsible for the maintenance of the road.

"We realize such a bylaw now exists in some communities," said Snow, "but this amendment makes for uniform coverage, to include rural as well as municipal roads."

These new amendments are scheduled to take effect on Royal Assent sometime in June.

Edge Woodville 1-0

Home field jinx is broken, Merchants trim Fenelon 4-1

MINDEN — The Merchants evened their Tri County fastball league record at 4-4 this past week when they downed the Woodville Merchants 1-0 in Woodville last Tuesday evening and then came home on Wednesday and tripped arch-rival Fenelon 4-1. The victory on their home field was only their first in four starts, despite playing solid ball.

It now appears that Minden is getting it together and although they are only at .500 ball right now, they still have 16 more games in league play remaining.

On Tuesday in Woodville the game was anyone's until the fifth inning when Harris Steele lined a solid double to the fence in right field and scored on another double by Dave Hartwick.

Jack Snell (3-4) picked up his first shutout of the season, giving up eight hits, one walk and struck out five. Lorne Jackson took the loss, giving up one run on eight hits, walked two and fanned 10.

At their home park on Wednesday, Minden opened the scoring in the second when Dave Dollo walked stole second and scored on a double by Hartwick. However, Fenelon's Barrett, who hit the ball hard all evening, doubled to the centre field wall and scored on a single by Northey.

Minden went up 2-1 in the bottom of the third, Kirk Hewitt singled, stole second and took third on a sacrifice bunt by Barry Shaw. Hewitt then scored on another sacrifice bunt by Jack Snell. Minden iced the game in the fifth when they tallied twice. Hartwick led off with a single to centre, Hewitt then singled him to third. Shaw grounded out scoring Hartwick and Hewitt scored on a sharp single by Snell.

Snell (4-4) picked up his second win, giving up just one run on seven hits, walked one and fanned ten. Kevin Van Alstyne took the loss, yielding four runs on six hits, walked two and struck out five. Fenelon also committed three errors.

13 run 2nd inning gives Hal. Ladies 28-21 win over Minden

MINDEN — Last Tuesday evening at the ball park, the Minden ladies dropped their second game of the season to Haliburton's Victoria Sports ladies, 28-21. Minden's only other loss also came at the hands of Haliburton, who now own a fine 6-0 record, while Minden fell into second with 4-2.

The big blow to Minden's hopes on Tuesday evening came in the second inning when they yielded 13 runs to their visitors. Lynn Graham smashed a three run homer and Sheila Elston chipped in with a three run triple. Elston also smashed a three run homer in the third to give Haliburton a commanding 26-15 lead.

Minden settled down both in the field and at bat allowing only two runs over the final four innings but it was too late. The locals could only manage six runs in those four innings. Helen Burk smashed a triple to the right field fence in the fourth to account for two runs and Jan Fitchett smashed a two run homer in the seventh. Patty Vasey took the loss for Minden while Nancy Maughan picked up the victory, her fifth in as many games.

Minden will try and get back on the winning track on Tuesday evening with a victory over always tough, Carnarvon.

Curling Club holds spring golf tounament here

MINDEN — On Sunday afternoon at the Beaverbrook Golf Club, the Minden Curling Club held their annual spring golf tournament and barbecue.

Grant Henderson, a guest of George Creighton, took top honours, with a gross score of 40, on the par 35, nine-hole course. Second low gross went to Earle Ross of Minden with a 41. For the ladies it was Minnie Gilhooley with a score of 58, second was Grace Coburn with 63. The inflated scores by everyone in the game were caused by the high winds that swept the course all afternoon.

Low net honours went to Cliff Burke with a 36 and Mazie McIntosh with 37. Second went to Wilf Jarvis 37 and Harry Campbell 37, for the ladies it was Marge Windover 40 and Helen Burton 40.

The longest drives went to George Creighton and Ellen Scribner. Herb Gill punched a five iron shot to within eight feet of the cup on the par 3, eighth hole to win the closest to the pin award and the two most honest golfers of the day went to Eileen O'Brien with 85 and Brent Eagleson with 60.

At the conclusion of the tournament the 50 plus golfers adjourned to Rotary Beach park where they took advantage of the beautiful barbecue facilities.

Those Rising Tax Bills

By W. Roger Worth

The millions of Canadians who have believed instinctively that their tax bills have been rising at an inordinate pace since 1961 have been proven correct.

A recent study by Vancouver's Fraser Institute indicates the average Canadian family's tax bill is up a cool 302% since 1961. Worse, the study estimates the increase would be a realistic 336% if the rising amount of government debt (deferred taxation) is included.

More important, perhaps, are comparisons between tax increases and costs in other parts of consumer budgets.

In 1961, for example, an average Canadian family had total before-tax income of $8,187 and faced a tax bill of $1,863 in hidden and direct taxes.

Roger Worth is Director, Public Affairs, Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

In the same year, the family would have paid $1,066 on housing, $1,305 for food, and a further $491 on clothing.

Now consider what's happened between 1961 and 1978.

In the intervening period, total family income leaped 231% to $27,101. The consumer price index, meanwhile, jumped 134% partially as a result of increased housing costs (up 255% to $3,781), rising food expenditures (up 172% to $3,549), and higher clothing spending (up 200% to $1,474).

The fatter tax bills, on the other hand, outpaced all these, rising 302% to $7,486 in the 17 year period, or 336% to $8,123 if government deficits are included.

It's important to note that during the interval some costly government programs were initiated, shifting some spending away from the private sector. Two examples, the national health care scheme and a major expansion of government support for senior citizens.

Nevertheless, other government spending (and taxation) has increased dramatically over the years.

The study also provides some insight into methods of tax collection and a possible reason for the relatively muted public reaction to the changes.

Says the report: "While most Canadians are used to considering income taxes as the most significant taxes they pay . . . other taxes account for a larger fraction of the total tax bill".

The Institute points out that in 1978 the average family paid income taxes of $3,134, yet other taxes – ranging from oil and motor vehicle taxes, to amusement and property taxes – amounted to $4,352.

"George Hector" hangs in Stinson's Store

Last year Art and Mary Jones purchased Stinson's General Store at Hall's Lake on Hwy. 35 and at that time returned to Haliburton County from Cambridge Bay on Victoria Island, 250 miles inside the Arctic Circle. There Art worked for the government of the North West Territories, for the 900 inhabitants of Cambridge Bay. During there two year stay, Art managed to out-barter other buyers for "George Hector", as Art calls him above, an Arctic Musk Ox. Each year six hunting permits are issued to each Eskimo settlement by the NWT government for Musk Ox and Polar Bears. These permits are given to the six best hunters in the settlement. David Komiak, one of the hunters managed to bring down George Hector. The head was mounted for the Jones in Saskatoon and the hide was cured in Winnipeg. The Jones also have many other fine arctic furs cured and hanging on the walls of the store, among them being wolverene and fox.

Controlled moose hunt for Kapuskasing area

A controlled moose hunt will be held this fall south of Highway 11 between Kapuskasing and Hearst, Natural Resources Minister James A. C. Auld announced today.

Mr. Auld said that this experiment in controlling hunting pressure will take place in wildlife management unit 23, during the regular 1979 season. It will be open to Ontario residents as well as to non-residents.

The area was chosen because the ministry has good information on both the structure of the moose herd and past hunters' activities. It was not chosen because it provided better moose hunting than other units.

The moose season is scheduled for October 18 to November 15 but those wishing to participate in the special hunt must apply to the Ministry of Natural Resources office in Kapuskasing by June 15.

"It's not necessary to have a regular moose licence when applying," the minister said, "but it will certainly be needed to participate in the hunt."

The controlled hunt will limit the number of hunters to 950 residents and 50 non-residents. A draw will be held in the Kapuskasing district office at noon on June 20 if that number is exceeded. Applicants selected in the draw will be sent a special stamp to be affixed to their regular moose licence.

Sportsmen hunting in unit 23 must report any moose they shoot to a ministry office or check station by November 20. In addition, they are required to produce for inspection either the lower jaw, or if they judge an animal to be a trophy, the entire head. Preferably this report should be made to the Kapuskasing or Hearst offices.

Data on age, sex, location, date of kill, and physical condition will be recorded by ministry wildlife staff. Mr. Auld said this type of information is essential in improving the management of moose populations.

He said it is an experimental approach to limit the number of hunters in underpopulated moose areas, which the ministry recognized earlier as a serious need.

"As I noted in February when announcing the moose seasons, the problem of overharvest was recognized in 1975 when the ministry took immediate steps to build up the declining herd and we were optimistic the downward trend in herd size could be reversed."

The minister said it was decided then to limit the kill in overharvested areas by providing shorter seasons between rut and snowfall.

Mr. Auld explained that his ministry is evaluating ways to provide more predictable controls of the harvest.

"If this test – one method of controlling hunter numbers – is successful, it can be applied to larger areas in the province."

The minister said limiting moose hunters cannot be achieved merely by excluding non-resident hunters or hunters from other parts of Ontario.

"Hunters are important in the tourist trade and tourism is part of the foundation of Northern Ontario's economy, so this industry must not suffer as a result of any changes in our management techniques."

Mr. Auld said that for this year only, hunters who have booked with bona fide tourist outfitters within the area, will receive special consideration as many of the outfitters have already booked clients. A provincial allocation policy for the tourist industry has not yet been established for future years.

Application forms and complete information concerning the hunt are available from the Kapuskasing and Hearst district offices of the ministry.

The remains of a pregnant female deer carrying triplet fawns, a fairly rare occurance and thought to have been the victims of poachers, has been discovered just east of the Algonquin Park boundary, a Ministry of Natural Resources spokesman said last week. Officials say that the five year old doe would have given birth to the two male and one female fawns about the end of last month. Above, Conservation Officer Wayne McCormack shows the three unborn fawns denied the right of birth.

Ask Alma

Dear Alma:
My wife works afternoon shifts and I get home about 5 p.m. The lady next door does our laundry. My wife doesn't know that this woman borrows her slips, bras and panties and returns them with the clean laundry. I find it very hard to tell my wife, because this lady is not married and my wife would think there was something funny going on. Does the Woman Next Door, Everyplace, U.S.A., do this? -- No Name Please

Dear N.N.P.:
She sure doesn't, and there IS something funny going on. What your neighbor is doing is short-term stealing, and you are her accomplice, willing or not.
In today's world, the laundry doesn't have to be done by a woman. Since you're home in the afternoon, why don't you do the wash? I'm sure your wife wouldn't mind if YOU wanted to borrow her undies!

- - - -

Dear Alma:
I have a problem that's threatening my six-month-old marriage. I am very outgoing, love parties and enjoy going out to dinner or dancing with other couples. My wife is exactly the opposite. She would rather spend an evening alone at home or play cards with her sister and brother-in-law. Consequently, our sphere of friends is very limited and I am growing BORED, BORED, BORED.
Alma, how can I get her to be more sociable and where can we go to meet some nice young couples? — BILL S.

Dear B.S.:
Any outside activity that you can do together will draw other couples, too.
Every bowling alley has mixed leagues (husband-and-wife teams). Adult evening schools offer social dancing classes and are popular with young marrieds. Comunity service groups attract couples, and all-male organizations, like the Lion's Club, generally have women's auxiliaries and combined activities. Many churches and synagogues have "Young Couples Clubs" with social programs.
Repeated contacts with the people you meet will put your wife at ease and provide opportunities to invite some of them to join you in the other activities you enjoy.
